About the National Workshop

In the contemporary academic and professional landscape, research and publication serve as critical tools for knowledge creation, dissemination, and policy influence. The process of moving from an initial idea to a published research paper often poses significant challenges for students, young researchers, and academicians. These include conceptualization, literature review, research design, writing style, adherence to citation formats, responding to peer review, and navigating ethical considerations.

To bridge these gaps, the Centre for Law and Economics at Dharmashastra National Law University (DNLU), Jabalpur is organizing a National Workshop on “From Idea to Publication: A Practical Guide to Writing Research Papers”. This workshop aims to provide participants with structured guidance and practical insights to enhance their academic writing, improve publication success, and contribute meaningfully to scholarly discourse.
