ABOUT THE CONFERENCE:

Women's empowerment remains one of the most pressing global concerns, closely linked with sustainable development, inclusive growth, and social justice. Despite decades of advocacy, policy interventions, and grassroots mobilization, women across the globe continue to face challenges in areas such as education, employment, health, political representation, digital inclusion, and safety. These challenges are not just socio-cultural, but are also deeply rooted in systemic inequalities and economic disparities.

In this context, the United Nations Sustainable Development Goals (SDGs) – particularly Goal 4 (Quality Education), Goal 5 (Gender Equality), Goal 8 (Decent Work and Economic Growth), and Goal 10 (Reduced Inequalities)—emphasize the importance of gender equality and women's empowerment as central to achieving a sustainable future. India, as a signatory to the SDGs, has undertaken several initiatives to empower women. These are further reinforced under the visionary agenda of Viksit Bharat at 2047, which envisions India as a fully developed nation by its 100th year of independence, with gender equity and women-led development at the forefront. However, despite considerable progress, India and the world still face significant gender gaps, particularly exacerbated by the digital divide, climate vulnerability, and economic crisis during the COVID-19 pandemic, and gender-based violence.

This conference aims to bring together global scholars, policymakers, practitioners, and civil society leaders to deliberate on these emerging and persistent challenges, and to co-create actionable, evidence-based solutions.

The Conference Aims to:

1. Critically examine contemporary challenges to women's empowerment across multiple domains (economic, social, political, educational, and technological).
2. Analyze the alignment of current national and international policies with the UN SDGs and Viksit Bharat at 2047 goals.
3. Facilitate cross-national learning through global and regional case studies.
4. Provide a platform for young researchers and women leaders to present innovative solutions and grass root strategies.
5. Produce policy recommendations and a research agenda that can guide the future interventions and academic inquiry.

As India approaches 100 years of independence, achieving the vision of Vikshit Bharat @2047 and meeting the UN Sustainable Development Goals (SDGs) calls for urgent and continuous focus on empowering women. This international conference aims to spark meaningful discussions, strengthen the connection between policy, practice, and research, and encourage innovation to support this goal.
