State of U.P.

.....Opposite Party(s)

Counsel for Applicant(s)	: Amber Khanna, Raj Kumar Khanna, Ram Kripal, Sandal Khanna
Counsel for Opposite Party(s)	: G.A.

Court No. - 34

HON'BLE ROHIT RANJAN AGARWAL J.

1. Heard learned counsel for the applicant and learned A.G.A. for the State.
2. This is a second bail application. By means of this application, applicant-Randhir, who is involved in Case Crime No. 660 of 2023(S.T. No. 33 of 2024), under Section 8/20 of N.D.P.S. Act, Police Station - Robertsganj, District - Sonbhadra, seeks enlargement on bail during the pendency of trial.
3. The first bail application of the applicant being Criminal Misc. Bail Application No. 3333 of 2024 was rejected on 12.08.2024 and following order was passed:-

"1. Heard learned counsel for the applicant and learned A.G.A. for the State.

2. By means of the present bail application, the applicant seeks bail in Case Crime No. 660 of 2023, under Section 8/20 of Narcotic Drugs and Psychotropic Substances Act, 1985 (hereinafter referred to as "NDPS Act"), Police Station- Robertsganj, District- Sonbhadra, during the pendency of trial.

3. The prosecution story as unfolded from the First Information Report (FIR) is that Contraband (Ganja) has been recovered from DCM Truck No.HR45 B3831 in eight packets, total weight 151.600 kgs. When the police had intercepted the vehicle at Robertsganj, Sonbhadra, the driver and the cleaner were apprehended on spot who confessed that they were brining the aforesaid contraband from Orrisa and were going to Haryana.

4. *Learned counsel for the applicant submitted that the applicant is Cleaner of the said truck and has no concerned with the aforesaid Contraband, which is alleged to have been recovered from the truck. It is further contended that the applicant does not have any criminal history. It is next contended that necessary compliance under Section 50 of the Act was not done and the sample were not prepared and sent for chemical examination. It was lastly contended that the applicant is languishing in jail since 12.11.2023. Reliance has been placed upon decision of Apex Court rendered in Simarnjit Singh vs. State of Punjab 2023 Supreme (SC) 658; Mangilal vs. State of Madhya Pradesh 2023 Supreme (SC) 703; and, Union of India vs. Mohanlal & Anr. 2016 Supreme (SC) 82.

5. Learned A.G.A. has opposed the bail application and submitted that the applicant was apprehended on spot along with driver of the truck and were transporting Contraband (Ganja). The recovered quantity is huge to the tune of 151.600 kgs., which is well above the commercial quantity. It is further submitted that the recovery was made from the truck and it amounts to conscious possession and the necessary compliance was done. He further submitted that the sample of the recovered contraband was sent of chemical analysis and the report of FSL had come wherein the recovered material was found to be Contraband (ganja), copy of which has been appended as Annexure -1 to the counter affidavit. It is further submitted that after investigation was concluded on 31.12.2023, charge sheet has also been filed in the matter.

6. I have heard learned counsel for the parties and perused the material on record.

7. This is a case where contraband (Ganja) amounting to 151.600 kgs. has been recovered from the possession of the applicant and other co-accused.

8. Section 37 of the NDPS Act governs the field for grant of bail in offences which are cognizable and non-bailable. Section 37 is extracted here as under;

"37. Offences to be cognizable and non-bailable.- (1) Notwithstanding anything contained in the Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973 (2 of 1974)-

(a) every offence punishable under this Act shall be cognizable;

(b) no person accused of an offence punishable for offences under section 19 or section 24 or section 27A and also for offences involving commercial quantity shall be released on bail or on his own bond unless-

(i) the Public Prosecutor has been given an opportunity to oppose the application for such release, and

(ii) where the Public Prosecutor opposes the application, the court is satisfied that there are reasonable grounds for believing that he is not guilty of such offence and that he is not likely to commit any offence while on bail.

(2) The limitations on granting of bail specified in clause (b) of sub-section (1) are in addition to the limitations under the Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973 (2 of 1974) or any other law for the time being in force, on granting of bail."

9. According to the aforesaid provisions, the Court, before granting bail, has to record reason that there are reasonable ground that the applicant is not guilty of such offence and furthermore that he is not likely to commit any offence while on bail.

10. Apex Court, while dealing with aforesaid provision in case of Union of India Vs. Ram Samujh and Another, (1999) 9 SCC 429, held as under;

"7. It is to be borne in mind that the aforesaid legislative mandate is required to be adhered and followed. It should be borne in mind that in murder case, accused commits murder of one or two persons, while those persons who are dealing in narcotic drugs are instruments in causing death or in inflicting death blow to number of innocent young victims, who are vulnerable: it causes deleterious effects and deadly impact on the society; they are a hazard to the society; even if they are released temporarily, in all probability, they would continue their nefarious activities of trafficking and/or dealing in intoxicants clandestinely. Reason may be large stake and illegal profit involved. This Court, dealing with the contention with regard to punishment under NDPS Act, has succinctly observed about the adverse effect of such activities in Durand Didien v. Chief Secretary, Union Territory of Goa. (1990) 1 SCC 95 as under:

"24. With deep concern, we may point out that the organised activities of the underworld and the clandestine smuggling of narcotic drugs and psychotropic substances into this country and illegal trafficking in such drugs and substances have led to drug addiction among a sizeable section of the public, particularly the adolescents and students of both sexes and the menace has assumed serious and alarming proportion in the recent years. Therefore, in order to effectively control and eradicate this proliferating and booming devastating menace, causing deleterious effects and deadly impact on the society as a whole, the Parliament in the wisdom has made effective provisions by introducing this Act 81 of 1985 specifying mandatory minimum imprisonment and fine,"

8. To check the menace of dangerous drugs flooding the market, the Parliament has provided that the person accused of offences under the NDPS Act should not be released on bail during trial unless mandatory conditions provided in Section 37, namely,

(i) there are reasonable grounds for believing that accused is not guilty of such offence; and

(ii) that he is not likely to commit while on bail."

11. In Union of India Vs. Shiv Shanker Kesari, (2007) 7 SCC 798, Apex Court elaborated and explained the conditions for granting of bail as provided under Section 37 of the NDPS Act. Relevant paragraph Nos. 6 and 7 are extracted here as under;

"6. As the provision itself provides no person shall be granted bail unless the two conditions are satisfied. They are; the satisfaction of the Court that there are reasonable grounds for believing that the accused is not guilty and that he is not likely to commit any offence while on bail. Both the conditions have to be satisfied. If either of these two conditions is not satisfied, the bar operates and the accused cannot be released on bail.

7. The expression used in Section 37(1)(b)(ii) is "reasonable grounds". The expression means something more than prima facie grounds. It connotes substantial probable causes for believing that the accused is not guilty of the offence charged and this reasonable belief contemplated in turn points to existence of such facts and circumstances as are sufficient in themselves to justify recording of satisfaction that the accused is not guilty of the offence charged."

12. In Union of India Vs. Rattan Mallik @ Habul, (2009) 1 SCC (Cri) 831, Apex Court observed as under;

"14. We may, however, hasten to add that while considering an application for bail with reference to Section 37 of the NDPS Act, the Court is not called upon to record a finding of 'not guilty'. At this stage, it is neither necessary nor desirable to weigh the evidence meticulously to arrive at a positive finding as to whether or not the accused has committed offence under the NDPS Act. What is to be seen is whether there is reasonable ground for believing that the accused is not guilty of the offence(s) he is charged with and further that he is not likely to commit an offence under the said Act while on bail. The satisfaction of the Court about the existence of the said twin conditions is for a limited purpose and is confined to the question of releasing the accused on bail."

13. In State of Kerala Etc. Vs. Rajesh Etc. AIR 2020 SC 721, Apex Court considered the scope of Section 37 and relying upon earlier decision in Ram Samujh (supra) held as under;

"20. The scheme of Section 37 reveals that the exercise of power to grant bail is not only subject to the limitations contained under Section 439 of the CrPC, but is also subject to the limitation placed by Section 37 which commences with non-obstante clause. The operative part of the said section is in the negative form prescribing the enlargement of bail to any person accused of commission of an offence under the Act, unless twin conditions are satisfied. The first condition is that the prosecution must be given an opportunity to oppose the application; and the second, is that the Court must be satisfied that there are reasonable grounds for believing that he is not guilty of such offence. If either of these two conditions is not satisfied, the ban for granting bail operates.

21. The expression "reasonable grounds" means something more than prima facie grounds. It contemplates substantial probable causes for believing that the accused is not guilty of the alleged offence. The reasonable belief contemplated in the provision requires existence of such facts and circumstances as are sufficient in themselves to justify satisfaction that the accused is not guilty of the alleged offence. In the case on hand, the High Court seems to have completely overlooked the underlying object of Section 37 that in addition to the limitations provided under the CrPC, or any other law for the time being in force, regulating the grant of bail, its liberal approach in the matter of bail under the NDPS Act is indeed uncalled for."

14. The Apex Court in Union of India vs. Prateek Shukla AIR 2021 SC 1509 held that merely recording the submissions of the parties does not amount to an indication of a judicial or, for that matter, a judicious application of mind. The provision of Section 37 of the NDPS Act provide the legal norms which have to be applied in determining whether a case for grant of bail is made out.

15. In State (NCT of Delhi) Narcotics Control Bureau Vs. Lokesh Chadha (2021) 5 SCC 724 the Court held as under :

".....Section 37 of the NDPS Act stipulates that no person accused of an offence punishable for the offences under section 19 or section 24 or section 27A and also for offences involving commercial quantity shall be released on bail, where the Public Prosecutor oppose the application, unless the court is satisfied that there are reasonable grounds for believing that he is not guilty of such offence and that he is not likely to commit any offence while on bail."

16. In a recent judgment of Union of India through Narcotics Control Bureau, Lucknow vs. Mohd. Nawaz Khan (2021) 10 SCC 100, Hon'ble Apex Court while cancelling the bail of accused held that the High Court should consider that in case the accused is enlarged on bail, there should be reasonable ground to believe that he will not commit an offence in future. Relevant paras of the judgment reads hereas under :

"23. Based on the above precedent, the test which the High Court and this Court are required to apply while granting bail is whether there are reasonable grounds to believe that the accused has not committed an offence and whether he is likely to commit any offence while on bail. Given the seriousness of offences punishable under the NDPS Act and in order to curb the menace of drug-trafficking in the country, stringent parameters for the grant of bail under the NDPS Act have been prescribed.

25. We shall deal with each of these circumstances in turn. The respondent has been accused of an offence under Section 8 of the NDPS Act, which is punishable under Sections 21, 27-A, 29, 60(3) of the said Act. Section 8 of the Act prohibits a person from possessing any narcotic drug or psychotropic substance. The concept of possession recurs in Sections 20 to 22, which provide for punishment for offences under the Act. In Madan Lal v. State of H.P. [Madan Lal v. State of H.P., (2003) 7 SCC 465 : 2003 SCC (Cri) 1664] this Court held that : (SCC p. 472, paras 19-23 & 26)

"19. Whether there was conscious possession has to be determined with reference to the factual backdrop. The facts which can be culled out from the evidence on record are that all the accused persons were travelling in a vehicle and as noted by the trial court they were known to each other and it has not been explained or shown as to how they travelled together from the same destination in a vehicle which was not a public vehicle.

20. Section 20(b) makes possession of contraband articles an offence. Section 20 appears in Chapter IV of the Act which relates to offences for possession of such articles. It is submitted that in order to make the possession illicit, there must be a conscious possession.

21. It is highlighted that unless the possession was coupled with the requisite mental element i.e. conscious possession and not mere custody without awareness of the nature of such possession, Section 20 is not attracted.

22. The expression "possession" is a polymorphous term which assumes different colours in different contexts. It may carry different meanings in contextually different backgrounds. It is impossible, as was observed in Supt. & Remembrancer of Legal Affairs, W.B. v. Anil Kumar Bhunja [Supt. & Remembrancer of Legal Affairs, W.B. v. Anil Kumar Bhunja, (1979) 4 SCC 274 : 1979 SCC (Cri) 1038] to work out a completely logical and precise definition of "possession" uniform[ly] applicable to all situations in the context of all statutes.

23. The word "conscious" means awareness about a particular fact. It is a state of mind which is deliberate or intended.

26. Once possession is established, the person who claims that it was not a conscious possession has to establish it, because how he came to be in possession is within his special knowledge. Section 35 of the Act gives a statutory recognition of this position because of the presumption available in law. Similar is the position in terms of Section 54 where also presumption is available to be drawn from possession of illicit articles."

26. What amounts to "conscious possession" was also considered in Dharampal Singh v. State of Punjab [Dharampal Singh v. State of Punjab, (2010) 9 SCC 608 : (2010) 3 SCC (Cri) 1431], where it was held that the knowledge of possession of contraband has to be gleaned from the facts and circumstances of a case. The standard of conscious possession would be different in case of a public transport vehicle with several persons as opposed to a private vehicle with a few persons known to one another. In Mohan Lal v. State of Rajasthan [Mohan Lal v. State of Rajasthan, (2015) 6 SCC 222 : (2015) 3 SCC (Cri) 881], this Court also observed that the term "possession" could mean physical possession with animus; custody over the prohibited substances with animus; exercise of dominion and control as a result of concealment; or personal knowledge as to the existence of the contraband and the intention based on this knowledge.

28. As regards the finding of the High Court regarding absence of recovery of the contraband from the possession of the respondent, we note that in Union of India v. Rattan Mallik [Union of India v. Rattan Mallik, (2009) 2 SCC 624 : (2009) 1 SCC (Cri) 831], a two-Judge Bench of this Court cancelled the bail of an accused and reversed the finding of the High Court, which had held that as the contraband (heroin) was recovered from a specially made cavity above the cabin of a truck, no contraband was found in the "possession" of the accused. The Court observed that merely making a finding on the possession of the contraband did not fulfil the parameters of Section 37(1)(b) and there was non-application of mind by the High Court.

29. In line with the decision of this Court in Rattan Mallik [Union of India v. Rattan Mallik, (2009) 2 SCC 624 : (2009) 1 SCC (Cri) 831], we are of the view that a finding of the absence of possession of the contraband on the person of the respondent by the High Court in the impugned order does not absolve it of the level of scrutiny required under Section 37(1)(b)(ii) of the NDPS Act."

17. Supreme Court while dealing with the question of possession and application of Section 50 in case of Megh Singh Vs. State of Punjab, 2003 CRI. L.J. 4329, held that word 'possession' includes conscious possession. Further Section 50 applies in case of personal search of a person and it does not extend to search of a vehicle or container or a bag or premises. Relevant paragraph nos. 9 to 13 and 16 are extracted here as under;

"9. The expression 'possession' is a polymorphous term which assumes different colours in different contexts. It may carry different meanings in contextually different backgrounds. It is impossible, as was observed in Superintendent & Remembrancer of Legal Affairs, West Bengal v. Anil Kumar Bhunja and Ors. (AIR 1980 SC 52), to work out a completely logical and precise definition of "possession" uniformly applicable to all situations in the context of all statutes.

10. The word 'conscious' means awareness about a particular fact. It is a state of mind which is deliberate or intended.

11. As noted in Gunwantlal v. The State of M.P. (AIR 1972 SC 1756) possession in a given case need not be physical possession but can be constructive, having power and control over the article in case in question, while the person whom physical possession is given holds it subject to that power or control.

12. The word 'possession' means the legal right to possession (See Health v. Drown (1972) (2) All ER 561 (HL)). In an interesting case it was observed that where a person keeps his fire arm in his mother's flat which is safer than his own home, he must be considered to be in possession of the same. (See Sullivan v. Earl of Caithness (1976) (1) All ER 844 (QBD)).

13. Once possession is established the person who claims that it was not a conscious possession has to establish it, because how he came to be in possession is within his special knowledge. Section 35 of the Act gives a statutory recognition of this position because of presumption available in law. Similar is the position in terms of Section 54 where also presumption is available to be drawn from possession of illicit articles. This position was highlighted in Madan Lal and Anr. v. State of Himachal Pradesh (2003) (6) SCALE 483).

16. A bare reading of Section 50 shows that it only applies in case of personal search of a person. It does not extend to search of a vehicle or a container or a bag, or premises. (See Kalema Tumba v. State of Maharashtra and Anr. (JT1999) (8) SC 293), The State of Punjab v. Baldev Singh (JT1999) (4) SC 595), Gurbax Singh v. State of Haryana (2001) (3) SCC 28). The language of Section 50 is implicitly clear that the search has to be in relation to a person as contrasted to search of premises, vehicles or articles. This position was settled beyond doubt by the Constitution Bench in Baldev Singh's case (supra). Above being the position, the contention regarding non-compliance of Section 50 of the Act is also without any substance."

18. While dealing with the provision of Section 50 of the Act, Apex Court in case of Dehal Singh Vs. State of Himachal Pradesh, 2011 (72) ACC 661, held that Section 50 relates to the search of a person and not of the vehicle and thus there was no requirement for informing the applicant of the right to be searched in presence of a gazetted officer of Magistrate.

19. Reliance placed by applicant's counsel on the judgments of Apex Court is of no help as the State has come with the case that necessary compliance of Section 50 of the Act has been done and report of FSL has already been filed on 02.12.2023 wherein sample recovered was found to be Contraband (Ganja).

20. In the light of the analysis of the case, as mentioned above, and considering that recovery of huge quantity of contraband (Ganja) is 151.600 kgs. and applicant was apprehended on the spot and was having a conscious and constructive possession over the recovered contraband (Ganja), I do not find any reasonable ground in terms of Section 37 of the NDPS Act to release the applicant on bail.

21. Thus, taking into account the submission made by learned counsel for the parties and the evidence on record and the complicity of the applicant in offence in question, this Court do not find any ground to release the applicant on bail.

22. In the result, the bail application stands rejected.”

4. Counsel for the applicant submitted that the applicant is in jail since 12.11.2023. He further submitted that the mandatory provisions of Section 50 of Narcotic Drugs and Psychotropic Substances Act, 1985 (hereinafter referred as “NDPS Act”) were not complied with and the ground of arrest at the time of arrest was not disclosed to the applicant. According to him, applicant is cleaner of DCM truck from which the contraband is alleged to have been recovered. He was working as a daily wager by the owner/driver of the vehicle. It is also contended that he is working on a daily wage of Rs.500/- per day and has a wife, three daughters and one son and there is no one to look after the children. It is also contended that charge-sheet has been submitted and trial court had taken cognizance in the matter and charges were framed on 12.01.2024. As PW-1 has not appeared, Non Bailable Warrants have been issued against him. It is also stated that the alleged contraband does not belong to the applicant and he was not in conscious possession of the same.

5. Learned counsel has also submitted that police had not prepared the representative sample of each bag recovered from DCM truck. The Investigating Officer had submitted the charge-sheet on 31.12.2023 without filing FSL report along with said charge-sheet. He also invited the attention of the Court to the question and answer issued by trial court for demonstrating the fact that FSL report is not part of the charge-sheet. Reliance has been placed upon the decision of Apex Court rendered in case of Central Bureau of Investigation vs. R.S. Pai & Another, 2002

SCC (5) 82; Divyas Bardeva vs. Narcotics Control Bureau, Special Leave to Appeal (Crl) Nos. 11628/2022; Mohd. Arbaz, etc vs. State of NCT of Delhi, S.L.P. (Crl.) Nos. 8164-8166/20212002 SCC(5) 82; Pankaj Gupta vs. Narcotics Control Bureau, S.L.P. (Crl.) No. 12200/2023; Bablu Singh vs. State of M.P., S.L.P.(Crl) No. 631 of 2024; Babu Singh & Others vs. State of U.P., 1978 Cr.L.J. 651, judgment of Bombay High Court rendered in case of Aleksander Kurganov vs. State & Another, 2021 Supreme (Bomb) 658; judgment of Punjab and Haryana High Court rendered in case of Tajuddin @ Rotash vs. State of Haryana, 2021 Supreme (P & H)1626 (online)/ 2022 Cr.L.J., Page 1135; Vinay Kumar @ Vicky vs. State of Haryana, 2021 CriCC 200; Gurjant Singh vs. State of Haryana, CRR 1868-2022(O&M); judgment of Patna High Court rendered in case of Faiyaz Miyan vs. State of Bihar, Criminal Misc. No. 16906 of 2025, decided on 02.07.2025 and judgment of this Court rendered in case of Aman Dixit Vs. State of U.P., Criminal Misc. Bail Application No. 11247 of 2021, decided on 12.11.2021.

6. Learned A.G.A. has opposed the bail application and submitted that huge quantity of contraband (ganja) has been recovered and the applicant was sitting in the DCM truck when the alleged recovery was made. He further submitted that sample from each eight bags of ganja recovered was sent for chemical analysis which amounted to 80 grams on 18.11.2023. The report of FSL was submitted on 02.12.2023 which has been annexed as annexure-1 to counter affidavit. According to him, charge-sheet was submitted on 31.12.2023 and cognizance order was passed on 12.01.2024. According to him, FSL report is part of the case diary dated 19.06.2024 as the investigation is still going on in respect of the owner of the vehicle which is evident from CD-8 prepared on 31.12.2023. He then contended that FSL report is only a corroborative evidence which shall be considered at the time of trial. The argument raised from the applicant side that it is not part of case diary is not acceptable. He further contended that Section 293 of Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973 provides for report of certain government scientific expert, which includes examination or analysis and report in course of any proceeding under the Code, and may be used as evidence in any inquiry, trial or other proceedings under the Code. He also contended that provisions of Section 167(2) Cr.P.C. in case of commercial quantity having been recovered of any contraband would be read as 180 days and not as 90 days. This has been provided in Section 36A(4) of the NDPS Act, 1985.

7. I have heard respective counsel for the parties and perused the material on record.

8. Before advertent to decide the second bail application, a cursory glance of recent judgment rendered by Hon'ble Apex Court in case of Narcotics Control Bureau vs. Kashif in Criminal Appeal No.5544 of 2024 arising out of Special Leave Petition (Crl.) No.12120 of 2024, decided on 20.12.2024, is necessary for better understanding of the case.

9. Hon'ble Supreme Court considering the legislative intent and the history of the NDPS Act and insertion of Section 52A held that the heading of Section 52A itself leave no room of doubt that the provision was inserted for an early disposal of the seized narcotic drugs and psychotropic substances, as one of the measures required to be taken to implement the provisions of the International Conventions on Narcotics Drugs and Psychotropic Substances. Relevant paras 20, 21, 23 and 24 of the judgment are extracted here as under :-

“20. Now, so far as Section 52A is concerned, the language employed therein itself is very clear that the said provision was inserted for an early disposal of the seized narcotic drugs and psychotropic substances, having regard to the hazardous nature, vulnerability to theft, substitution, constraints of proper storage space and other relevant considerations. Apart from the plain language used in the said section, its Heading also makes it clear that the said provision was inserted for the Disposal of the seized narcotic drugs and psychotropic substances. As per the well settled rule of interpretation, the Section Heading or Marginal note can be relied upon to clear any doubt or ambiguity in the interpretation of any provision and to discern the legislative intent. The Section Heading constitutes an important part of the Act itself, and may be read not only as explaining the provisions of the section, but it also affords a better key to the constructions of the provisions of the section which follows than might be afforded by a mere preamble. (Eastern Coalfields Limited vs. Sanjay Transport Agency and Another, (2009) 7 SCC 345)

21. The insertion of Section 52A with the Heading “Disposal of seized narcotic drugs and psychotropic substances” along with the insertion of the words “to provide for the forfeiture of property derived from or used in, illicit traffic in narcotics drugs and psychotropic substances, to implement the provisions of International Conventions on Narcotics Drugs and Psychotropic Substances”, in the long title of the NDPS Act, by Act 2 of 1989 w.e.f. 29.05.1989, leaves no room of doubt that the said provision of Section 52A was inserted for an early disposal of the seized narcotic drugs and psychotropic substances, as one of the measures required to be taken to implement the provisions of the International Conventions on Narcotics Drugs and Psychotropic Substances. The Heading of Section 52A i.e. Disposal of seized narcotic drugs and psychotropic substances delineates the object and reason of the insertion of said provision and such Heading cannot be underscored. From the bare reading of Section 52A also it is very much discernable that sub-section (1) thereof empowers the Central Government, having regard to the hazardous nature, vulnerability to theft, substitution, constraint of proper storage space or any other relevant consideration, to specify narcotic drugs, psychotropic substances for the purpose of their disposal as soon as may be after their seizure, by such officer and in such manner as the Central Government may determine after following the procedure specified in sub-section (2).

23. As demonstrated above, sub-section (2) of Section 52A specifies the procedure as contemplated in sub-section (1) thereof, for the disposal of the seized contraband or controlled narcotic drugs and psychotropic substances. Any deviation or delay in making the application under subsection (2) by the concerned officer to the Magistrate or the delay on the part of the Magistrate in deciding such application could at the most be termed as an irregularity and not an illegality which would nullify or vitiate the entire case of the prosecution. The jurisprudence as developed by the courts so far, makes clear distinction between an “irregular proceeding” and an “illegal proceeding.” While an irregularity can be remedied, an illegality cannot be. An irregularity may be overlooked or corrected without affecting the outcome, whereas an illegality may lead to nullification of the proceedings. Any breach of procedure of rule or regulation which may indicate a lapse in procedure, may be considered as an irregularity, and would not affect the outcome of legal proceedings but it can not be termed as an illegality leading to the nullification of the proceedings. 24. Section 52A was inserted only for the purpose of early disposal of the seized contraband drugs and substances, considering the hazardous nature, vulnerability to theft, constraint of proper storage space etc. There cannot be any two opinions on the issue about the early disposal of the contraband drugs and substances, more particularly when it was inserted to implement the provisions of International Convention on the Narcotics Drugs and Psychotropic Substances, however delayed compliance or non-compliance of the said provision by the concerned 23 officer authorised to make application to the Magistrate could never be treated as an illegality which would entitle the accused to be released on bail or claim acquittal in the trial, when sufficient material is collected by the Investigating Officer to establish that the Search and Seizure of the contraband substance was made in due compliance of the mandatory provisions of the Act.”

10. The Apex Court further considered the scope of Section 52A in light of the decision of Constitution Bench in case of Pooran Mal vs. Director of Inspection (Investigation) New Delhi and others, (1974) 1 SCC 345 and Constitution Bench decision in case of State of Punjab vs. Baldev Singh (1999) 6 SCC 172 as well as decision in case of State of H.P. vs. Pirthi Chand and Another (1996) 2 SCC 37 and State of Punjab vs. Makhan Chand (2004) 3 SCC 453 and held that evidence collected during course of investigation in legal and proper manner and sought to be used in course of trial with regard to the seized contraband substances could not be simply brushed aside on the ground of procedural irregularity if any, committed by the concerned officer authorized in making application to the Magistrate as contemplated under Section 52A of the Act. Relevant paras 31, 32 and 33 of the judgment in case of Kashif (supra) are extracted here as under :-

“31. From the above decisions, the position that emerges is that this Court in catena of decisions, has approved the procedure of spot searches and seizures in compliance with the Standing Orders and the Notifications issued by the NCB and the Central Government, and upheld the convictions on being satisfied about the search and seizure made by the officers as per the provisions of the Act and being satisfied about the scientific evidence of F.S.L. reports etc. Even otherwise, in 28 view of the law laid down by the Constitution Benches in case of Pooran Mal and in case of Baldev Singh, any procedural illegality in conducting the search and seizure by itself, would not make the entire evidence collected thereby inadmissible. The Court would have to decide the admissibility of evidence in the context and the manner in which the evidence was collected and was sought to be used during the course of trial. The evidence collected during the course of investigation in legal and proper manner and sought to be used in the course of trial with regard to the seized contraband substance could not be simply brushed aside, on the ground of procedural irregularity if any, committed by the concerned officer authorised in making application to the Magistrate as contemplated under Section 52A of the Act.

32. Significantly, the Authorised Officer can make the application under subsection (2) of Section 52A for three purposes – (a) for certifying the correctness of the inventory prepared by him; or (b) taking in presence of such magistrate, photographs of the seized drugs, substances and conveyances and certifying such photographs as true; or (c) allowing to draw representative samples of such drugs or substances, in the presence of such Magistrate, and certifying the correctness of any list of samples so drawn. The use of the conjunction “OR” made in between the three purposes mentioned therein, itself makes it explicitly clear that the purposes for which the application could be made under sub-section (2) are alternative and not cumulative in nature. Such provision specifying multiple alternative purposes could not be construed as a mandatory provision muchless its non-compliance fatal to the case of prosecution.

33. Though it is true that the inventory certified, photographs taken and the list of samples drawn under sub-section (2) has to be treated by the Court as primary evidence in view of sub-section (3), nonetheless the documents like Panchnama, seizure memo, arrest memo etc. prepared by the Investigating Officer on the spot or during the course of investigation are also primary evidence within the meaning of Section 62 of the Evidence Act, carrying the same evidentiary value as any other primary evidence. Such primary evidence with regard to Search and Seizure of the contraband substance could not be overlooked merely because some lapse or non-compliance is found of Section 52A of the Act.”

11. The Apex Court further went on to hold that in the decision rendered in case of Union of India vs. Mohanlal and Another (2016) 3 SCC 379, the issue of pilferage of contraband was the main issue. The prime focal in case of Mohanlal (supra) was disposal of seized contraband goods as contemplated in Section 52A. Relevant paras 34 and 35 of the judgment in Kashif (supra) are extracted here as under :-

“34. In our opinion reliance placed by the High Court on the decision of this Court in Union of India Vs. Mohanlal and Another (2016) 3 SCC 379, is thoroughly misplaced. In the said case, the issue of pilferage of contraband was the main issue. The Court after noticing the non-compliance of the procedure laid down in the Standing Order No. 1 of 89 dated 13.06.1989, and the possibility of the pilferage of contraband goods and their return to the market place for circulation, had appointed an amicus curiae for making a realistic review of the procedure for search, disposal or destruction of the narcotics and remedial steps that need to be taken to plug the loopholes, if any. The Court, thereafter, had raised the queries with regard to the seizure, storage, disposal/destruction and also with regard to the judicial supervision in respect of the seized narcotic drugs and psychotropic substances. The prime focal in case of Mohanlal was the disposal of seized contraband goods as contemplated in Section 52A. Though it held that the process of drawing samples has to be done in presence of and under the supervision of the Magistrate, it nowhere held that non-compliance or delayed compliance of the procedure prescribed under Section 52A (2) would vitiate the trial or would entitle the accused to be released on bail.

35. None of the provisions in the Act prohibits sample to be taken on the spot at the time of seizure, much less Section 52A of the said Act. On the contrary, as per the procedure laid down in the Standing Orders and Notifications issued by the NCB and the Central Government before and after the insertion of Section 52A till the Rules of 2022 were framed, the concerned officer was required to take samples of the seized contraband substances on the spot of recovery in duplicate in presence of the Panch witnesses and the person in whose possession the drug or substance recovered, by drawing a Panchnama. It was only with regard to the remnant substance, the procedure for disposal of the said substance was required to be followed as prescribed in Section 52A.”

12. While considering the recent judgment of Apex Court rendered in case of Simarnjit vs. State of Punjab (Criminal Appeal No.1443/2023); Yusuf @ Asif vs. State 2023 SCC Online SC 1328 and Mohammed Khalid and Another vs. State of Telangana (2024) 5 SCC 393; the Apex Court in Kashif (supra) in paras 36, 37 and 38 held as under :-

“36. At this stage, we must deal with the recent judgments in case of Simarnjit vs. State of Punjab, (Criminal Appeal No.1443/2023), in case of Yusuf @ Asif vs. State (2023 SCC Online SC 1328), and in case of Mohammed Khalid and Another vs. State of Telangana ((2024) 5 SCC 393) in which the convictions have been set aside by this Court on finding non-compliance of Section 52A and relying upon the observations made in case of Mohanlal. Apart from the fact that the said cases have been decided on the facts of each case, none of the judgments has proposed to lay down any law either with regard to Section 52A or on the issue of admissibility of any other evidence collected during the course of trial under the NDPS Act. Therefore, we have considered the legislative history of Section 52A and other Statutory Standing Orders as also the judicial pronouncements, which clearly lead to an inevitable conclusion that delayed compliance or noncompliance of Section 52A neither vitiates the trial affecting conviction nor can be a sole ground to seek bail. In our opinion, the decisions of Constitution Benches in case of Pooran Mal and Baldev Singh must take precedence over any observations made in the judgments made by the benches of lesser strength, which are made without considering the scheme, purport and object of the Act and also without considering the binding precedents.

37. It hardly needs to be reiterated that every law is designed to further ends of justice and not to frustrate it on mere technicalities. If the language of a Statute in its ordinary meaning and grammatical construction leads a manifest contradiction of the apparent purpose of the enactment, a construction may be put upon it which modifies the meaning of the words, or even the structure of the sentence. It is equally settled legal position that where the main object and intention of a statute are clear, it must not be reduced to a nullity by the draftsman's unskillfulness or ignorance of the law. In Maxwell on Interpretation of Statutes, Tenth Edition at page 229, the following passage is found: -

“Where the language of a statute, in its ordinary meaning and grammatical construction, leads to a manifest contradiction of the apparent purpose of the enactment, or to some inconvenience or absurdity, hardship or injustice, presumably not intended, a construction may be put upon it which modifies the meaning of the words, and even the structure of the sentence. ... Where the main object and intention of a statute are clear, it must not be reduced to a nullity by the draftsman's unskillfulness or ignorance of the law, except in a case of necessity, or the absolute intractability of the language used.”

38. As observed by this Court in K.P. Varghese vs. Income Tax Officer, Ernakulam and Another (1981) 4 SCC 173, a statutory provision must be so construed, if it is possible, that absurdity and mischief may be avoided. Where the plain and literal interpretation of statutory provision produces a manifestly absurd and unjust result, the Court may modify the language used by the Legislature or even do some violence to it, so as to achieve the obvious intention of the Legislature and produce a rational construction and just result.”

13. The Apex Court, in para 39 of the judgment, had laid down the guidelines in regard to consideration of bail application in cases under the NDPS Act and the purpose of Section 52A and disposal of seized narcotics drugs and psychotropic substances, which are extracted hereas under :-

“39. The upshot of the above discussion may be summarized as under:

(I) The provisions of NDPS Act are required to be interpreted keeping in mind the scheme, object and purpose of the Act; as also the impact on the society as a whole. It has to be interpreted literally and not liberally, which may ultimately frustrate the object, purpose and Preamble of the Act.

(ii) While considering the application for bail, the Court must bear in mind the provisions of Section 37 of the NDPS Act which are mandatory in nature. Recording of findings as mandated in Section 37 is sine qua non is known for granting bail to the accused involved in the offences under the NDPS Act.

(iii) The purpose of insertion of Section 52A laying down the procedure for disposal of seized Narcotic Drugs and Psychotropic Substances, was to ensure the early disposal of the seized contraband drugs and substances. It was inserted in 1989 as one of the measures to implement and to give effect to the International Conventions on the Narcotic drugs and psychotropic substances.

(iv) Sub-section (2) of Section 52A lays down the procedure as contemplated in sub-section (1) thereof, and any lapse or delayed compliance thereof would be merely a procedural irregularity which would neither entitle the accused to be released on bail nor would vitiate the trial on that ground alone.

(v) Any procedural irregularity or illegality found to have been committed in conducting the search and seizure during the course of investigation or thereafter, would by itself not make the entire evidence collected during the course of investigation, inadmissible. The Court would have to consider all the circumstances and find out whether any serious prejudice has been caused to the accused.

(vi) Any lapse or delay in compliance of Section 52A by itself would neither vitiate the trial nor would entitle the accused to be released on bail. The Court will have to consider other circumstances and the other primary evidence collected during the course of investigation, as also the statutory presumption permissible under Section 54 of the NDPS Act."

14. The contention raised for enlarging the applicant on bail in view of the fact that FSL report is not part of the charge-sheet submitted by Investigating Officer on 31.12.2023 cannot be accepted as the report of chemical analysis of the contraband was given by the laboratory on 02.12.2023 confirming the recovered substance to be contraband (ganja).

15. It is an admitted position that investigation as far as owner of the vehicle is still going on and the charge-sheet has already been submitted on 31.12.2023.

16. The Constitution Bench in K. Veeraswami vs. Union of India and Others : (1991) 3 SCC 655 has explained the scope of Section 173(2). The relevant paragraph of the said judgment is reproduced as under:

"76. The charge-sheet is nothing but a final report of police officer under Section 173(2) of the CrPC. The Section 173(2) provides that on completion of the investigation the police officer investigating into a cognizable offence shall submit a report. The report must be in the form prescribed by the State Government and stating therein (a) the names of the parties; (b) the nature of the information; (c) the names of the persons who appear to be acquainted with the circumstances of the case; (d) whether any offence appears to have been committed and, if so, by whom (e) whether the accused has been arrested; (f) whether he had been released on his bond and, if so, whether with or without sureties; and (g) whether he has been forwarded in custody under Section

170. As observed by this Court in Satya Narain Musadi v. State of Bihar [(1980) 3 SCC 152, 157 : 1980 SCC (Cri) 660] that the statutory requirement of the report under Section 173(2) would be complied with if the various details prescribed therein are included in the report. This report is an intimation to the magistrate that upon investigation into a cognizable offence the Investigating Officer has been able to procure sufficient evidence for the court to inquire into the offence and the necessary information is being sent to the court. In fact, the report under Section 173(2) purports to be an opinion of the Investigating Officer that as far as he is concerned he has been able to procure sufficient material for the trial of the accused by the court. The report is complete if it is accompanied with all the documents and statements of witnesses as required by Section 175(5). Nothing more need be stated in the report of the Investigating Officer. It is also not necessary that all the details of the offence must be stated. The details of the offence are required to be proved to bring home the guilt to the accused at a later stage i.e. in the course of the trial of the case by adducing acceptable evidence."

17. The principle of law articulated in the aforesaid judgments was reiterated elaborately by the Hon'ble Apex Court in a recent judgment of CBI vs. Kapil Wadhawan: 2024 SCC OnLine SC 66, wherein it was held as under:

"22. In view of the above settled legal position, there remains no shadow of doubt that the statutory requirement of the report under Section 173 (2) would be complied with if the various details prescribed therein are included in the report. The report under Section 173 is an intimation to the court that upon investigation into the cognizable offence, the investigating officer has been able to procure sufficient evidence for the court to inquire into the offence and the necessary information is being sent to the court. The report is complete if it is accompanied with all the documents and statements of witnesses as required by Section 175 (5). As settled in the afore-stated case, it is not necessary that all the details of the offence must be stated.

23. The benefit of proviso appended to sub-section (2) of Section 167 of the Code would be available to the offender only when a chargesheet is not filed and the investigation is kept pending against him. Once however, a chargesheet is filed, the said right ceases. It may be noted that the right of the investigating officer to pray for further investigation in terms of sub-section (8) of Section 173 is not taken away only because a chargesheet is filed under sub-section (2) thereof against the accused. Though ordinarily all documents relied upon by the prosecution should accompany the chargesheet, nonetheless for some reasons, if all the documents are not filed along with the chargesheet, that reason by itself would not invalidate or vitiate the chargesheet. It is also well settled that the court takes cognizance of the offence and not the offender. Once from the material produced along with the chargesheet, the court is satisfied about the commission of an offence and takes cognizance of the offence allegedly committed by the accused, it is immaterial whether the further investigation in terms of Section 173(8) is pending or not. The pendency of the further investigation qua the other accused or for production of some documents not available at the time of filing of chargesheet would neither vitiate the chargesheet, nor would it entitle the accused to claim right to get default bail on the ground that the chargesheet was an incomplete chargesheet or that the chargesheet was not filed in terms of Section 173(2) of Cr. P.C."

(emphasis supplied)"

18. Section 173 of the Code of Criminal Procedure reads as under : -

"173. Report of police officer on completion of investigation.--(1) Every investigation under this Chapter shall be completed without unnecessary delay.

xxxx xxxx xxxx (2)(i) As soon as it is completed, the officer in charge of the police station shall forward to a Magistrate empowered to take cognizance of the offence on a police report, a report in the form prescribed by the State Government, stating--

(a) the names of the parties;

(b) the nature of the information;

(c) the names of the persons who appear to be acquainted with the circumstances of the case;

(d) whether any offence appears to have been committed and, if so, by whom;

(e) whether the accused has been arrested;

(f) whether he has been released on his bond and, if so, whether with or without sureties;

(g) whether he has been forwarded in custody under section 170.

xxxx xxxx xxxx

(ii) The officer shall also communicate, in such manner as may be prescribed by the State Government, the action taken by him, to the person, if any, by whom the information relating to the commission of the offence was first given.

(3) Where a superior officer of police has been appointed under section 158, the report shall, in any case in which the State Government by general or special order so directs, be submitted through that officer, and he may, pending the orders of the Magistrate, direct the officer in charge of the police station to make further investigation.

(4) Whenever it appears from a report forwarded under this section that the accused has been released on his bond, the Magistrate shall make such order for the discharge of such bond or otherwise as he thinks fit.

(5) When such report is in respect of a case to which section 170 applies, the police officer shall forward to the Magistrate along with the report--

(a) all documents or relevant extracts thereof on which the prosecution proposes to rely other than those already sent to the Magistrate during investigation;

(b) the statements-recorded under section 161 of all the persons whom the prosecution proposes to examine as its witnesses.

(6) If the police officer is of opinion that any part of any such statement is not relevant to the subject-matter of the proceedings or that its disclosure to the accused is not essential in the interests of justice and is inexpedient in the public interest, he shall indicate that part of the statement and append a note requesting the Magistrate to exclude that part from the copies to be granted to the accused and stating his reasons for making such request.

(7) Where the police officer investigating the case finds it convenient so to do, he may furnish to the accused copies of all or any of the documents referred to in sub- section (5).

(8) Nothing in this section shall be deemed to preclude further investigation in respect of an offence after a report under sub-section (2) has been forwarded to the Magistrate and, where upon such investigation, the officer in charge of the police station obtains further evidence, oral or documentary, he shall forward to the Magistrate a further report or reports regarding such evidence in the form prescribed; and the provisions of sub-sections (2) to (6) shall, as far as may be, apply in relation to such report or reports as they apply in relation to a report forwarded under sub-section (2)."

(emphasis supplied)

19. Thus, it is clear that charge-sheet is filed by completion of an investigation. Once Investigating Officer has found sufficient evidence to prosecute an accused for offence for which First Information Report has been registered, the FSL report, therefore, would only be corroborative in nature to the material collected and filed along with charge-sheet by Investigating Officer. Hence, report of FSL further received on a subsequent stage would be covered under Section 173(8) of Cr.P.C. It is clear from the perusal of the case diary placed by learned A.G.A. that investigation as far as owner of the vehicle is concerned is still going on and the FSL report which was given by laboratory on 02.12.2023 has been made part of the case diary on 16.06.2024.

20. The argument raised that applicant is entitled for bail as FSL report is not part of case diary cannot be accepted as Section 293 of Cr.P.C. provides for filing of certain report of government scientific experts. Sub-section (4) of Section 293 provides for Government scientific experts which encompasses the report of Chemical Examiner or Assistant Chemical Examiner to Government. The report submitted by Vidhi Vigyan Prayogshala, U.P., Ramnagar, Varanasi is covered by sub-section 4(a) of Section 293. The report so submitted is only corroborative in nature to the material collected and filed along with charge-sheet by Investigating Officer. There is no denial to the fact that report has not come from FSL confirming the contraband seized as ganja.

21. Having considered the argument raised from both sides, I find that the contraband (ganja) has been seized above the commercial quantity from the vehicle in which the applicant was sitting and claims to be cleaner and was in conscious possession of the said contraband. The reliance placed upon the various decisions are distinguishable from the facts of the present case.

22. No case for enlarging the applicant on bail is made out.

23. The bail application stands rejected.
